(By Times Special Cable.)

London, April 8.—The Cabinet having failed to come to a decision on the drink question, no settlement is expected until Parliament meets next week. The impression is growing that the Government will content itself with bringing in a measure prohibiting the sale of spirits. Even this step will not be exclusively a Government policy, since nothing can be done without consultation with other parties.

The Conservative leaders, A. J. Balfour and Andrew Bonar Law, are believed already to have given privately their assent to whatever action may be taken, provided no measure for total prohibition be considered at this time.

In proposing the prohibition of the sale of spirits and possibly wine, and lessening the strength of beer, Great Britain would be following the footsteps of Russia, which before the adoption of total prohibition forbade the manufacture or use of spirits.

Even the prohibition of traffic in spirits is not likely to be adopted without considerable opposition from the vested interests. The influence of the party favoring voluntary abstinence is growing. Its latest recruits include the heads of various churches, who have signed a pledge to abstain from intoxicating liquors during the war.

BRASSELLI MAKING A LARGE EXTENSION

The Grandi Chemical Company, which has been operating a large plant in the eastern section of this city for about three years, has decided to expand its plant to almost double the capacity of the plant. Up to the present the local plant, which is one of a large number of plants throughout the country, has manufactured the commercial acids and purified the by-products from the processes. Operations will start immediately on the new buildings and additions, and it is figured about $100,000 will be spent before these are completed.

The Proctor & Gamble plant still continues to grow bigger and bigger, until at present it is one of the largest in the city. On the same occasion as new buildings, until now five buildings of mammouth dimensions are almost completed.

GREAT CLASH OF WAR
POSTPONED TILL JUNE(By Times Special Cable.)
Rome, April 8.—Italy's failure to enter the war up to the present time is explained in official circles as due to the fact that the country's standard of living is too high to expose it to the enormous risks of war without first exhausting every possible resource. The Italian Government, however, without recourse to arms, it is believed that in the meantime Italy will gather, every day, additional strength, and that it will be compelled to postpone its entrance into the conflict.

Official reports received here from various capitals are said to agree with the statement that the supreme council of the Italian Government has decided to postpone its entrance into the war.

RUSS IN CARPATHIANS
BREAK AUSTRIAN LINE(By Times Special Cable.)
Paris, April 8.—London.—The advance of Russia in the Carpathians has cut the Austrian army, under General Bossevitch, in two. The eastern arm of this army is in a precarious position.

The Russians have measured small road of Lutsk, Poland.

The Russians have also thrown back the Austrians in the district of Barca and in the district of Lutsk. Having passed through the Redoubt, they have forced a wedge between the Austrian armies.

HAS AUSTRIA ALREADY
OPENED NEGOTIATIONS?(By Times Special Cable.)
Paris, April 8.—London.—The Austrians are reported to have opened semi-official negotiations with Russia in order to defend their frontier. The Austrians and he believes a "dramatic sur-correspondent of the paper at the Austrian capital reported to the Times that the Austrian Government already has opened semi-official pourparlers with Russia. The Austrians and he believes a "dramatic sur-is possible."

AWFUL COST
OF THE WAR

(By Times Special Cable.)

London, April 8.—The nations at war at present have lost 5,850,000 men in the first eight months of the conflict and spent $5,460,000,000 in the first six months, according to figures prepared for the Aviati, a Sociedad organ, by the Ministry of War. The article declines to give only reason of the war but is a reciprocal wearing out of the forces engaged and not a military victory. It is calculated that nine or ten months will exhaust the reserves of men and that the country which will suffer most from this exhaustion will, be Russia.

DEE CLOSED
AFTER DARK

(By Times Special Cable.)

Washington, April 8.—The New York Times has learned from the State Department that no new order has been issued by the British Admiralty, State Department has not been informed from London.

The British did not receive any permission to leave or enter other places between dark and daylight, and that all navigation is to be done by day. No expiration of the order is offered.

TEUTON AIRMEN
SLAY HELPLESS

(By Times Special Cable.)

Paris, April 8.—Twelve and sixteen-year-old boys and forty and sixteen-year-old girls have been dropped by Austrian aviators in the market place at Podgorica, Montenegro, and that the people of the town, which the Italian people long have felt animosity, would be popular. The Italian army has been successfully mobilized without a protest from Austria, the country most powerful in the Balkans. The Italian Government is in a hurry to indicate that the leaders of the Dual Monarchy are members of a committee to make the territorial concessions Italy desires.

ADMIT DEATH OF WEDDING

FIT FOR THE HOME-YARD.

That was a startling statement made to the press yesterday by the Plain Accounts Committee, at Ottawa, regarding the starting in this country of what was the testimony given before the Book Committee. The evidence was taken in connection with the purchase of horses for the Government in King's County, N.B., and the sale of horses to the Canadian Government by M. P. and W. P. MacKay, of Toronto, to John Stanfield, M. P. C. Chief Tory Whip in Parliament. The evidence went to show that almost any old broken down horse would do for the Government and that a good price was paid for good horses. Mr. A. H. Harvey, of Aspinwall, King's County, N.B., was the star witness of the day. To show what sort of deal he made with the Government, agents we quote parts of his testimony from the table of evidence which was read out by Mr. Nickle of Kingston:

"What was wrong with the first horse you sold to the Government?"
"I didn't have the legs enough to fit it for the home-yard."
Asked as to another horse he had sold, the witness stated that all he had was two little spuds."
Mr. Nickle said he sold what another horse he had sold was old:

"Old horses are not a 'fit'."
"Old horses are hard to tell."
"How old was he?"
"Well, he was growing up."
"He was a very old horse!"

"Yes, I think so."
Mr. Nickle said he made a good sale out of the horse, and of the consequence to the man who might use the horses?

"The men who bought them were good men, and I am sure they would not do them very long."

The witness then gave evidence to one of the horses he had sold to the Government. It had been a sorrel, owned originally by a Mr. Newman, who had sold him to Daniels, who sold him to Mr. Bell, and then to Mr. Nickle, who sold him to the witness:

"How much did you sell him for?"
"Two dollars."

"Did you sell him for 'fit'?"
"I sold him 'fit'—Mader then traded him with me for another horse."

"He was sold for 'fit'?"

"How long did you own the horse?"
"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

"What did you do with the horse?"
"I sold him to Mr. Daniels."

Mr. Harvey testified that the horse had at one time been traded for a "drake and two ducks." The old spayed horses he managed to dispose of to the Government at good prices were fair samples; he said, of all the horses there, Mr. S. S. Selfridge, of Aspinwall, had the best business bought horses for the front 20, 25 and 30 years old. The Mail and Empire reports some of his evidence as follows:

"Mr. Ingram Bowley's horse was sold to him," said Mr. Nickle.
"Two dollars."

"Did you sell him for 'fit'?"
"I sold him 'fit'—Mader then traded him with me for another horse."

"He was sold for 'fit'?"
"How long did you own the horse?"
"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

"What did you do with the horse?"
"I sold him to Mr. Daniels."

"How much did you sell him for?"
"Two dollars."

"Did you sell him for 'fit'?"
"I sold him 'fit'—Mader then traded him with me for another horse."

"He was sold for 'fit'?"
"How long did you own the horse?"
"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

"What did you do with the horse?"
"I sold him to Mr. Daniels."

"How much did you sell him for?"
"Two dollars."

"Did you sell him for 'fit'?"
"I sold him 'fit'—Mader then traded him with me for another horse."

"He was sold for 'fit'?"
"How long did you own the horse?"
"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

"What did you do with the horse?"
"I sold him to Mr. Daniels."

"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

public addresses making clear the duty of the nation to preserve, unto the end, the cause of freedom.

Not only is she and her followers actually engaged in this way, but they are proving themselves hard and persistent fighters in the cause of freedom, and their efforts are to be welcomed. As nurses and auxiliaries they are doing their utmost to add to the efficiency of British's war machine. The proposed woman's peace conference to be held at the Hague shortly has met with their opposition. She declares it to be well meant, but misses the point of the conference of both Britain and France will play a major role in the peace propaganda on the side of the water, which is now being carried on by the pro-Germans.

Asked as to another horse he had sold, the witness stated that all he had was two little spuds.

Mr. Nickle said he sold what another horse he had sold was old:

"Old horses are not a 'fit'."

"Old horses are hard to tell."
"How old was he?"

"Did you sell him for 'fit'?"
"I sold him 'fit'—Mader then traded him with me for another horse."

"He was sold for 'fit'?"
"How long did you own the horse?"
"About ten minutes," replied Mr. Nickle.

"What did you do with the horse?"
"I sold him to Mr. Daniels."

which he received a commission of $15,000. This may be why we are paying war taxes.

Gifford Pinchot affords another reason for extravagance on the part of States and Germany.

It does seem hard that any Hamilton man should have to enlist to keep his family from starving.

Premier Labor of Australia has sounded the war stoppage. It's supposed that the Liberal candidates for either East or West Hamilton have still to be heard from.

The British Independent Labor party of the war stopped. It's supposed now would mean a victory for Germany.

If the Herald would read our "Explanation" of Monday it might know why the explanation did not appear then Thursday.

Suppose Germany refuses to pay the bill presented to her by the United States for the sinking of the William F. Fife, what then?

The Government bought soldiers' houses-in for $35 cents a set, when they could have been bought for 25 cents a set.

In Parliament yesterday, Premier Laurier was asked when the date of the election was.

The Dominion Government has passed an amendment to the Civil Service in excess of diminished, resignations and deaths. No wonder the country is hard up.

Charles E. Sister, the man who made no money, got a raise as a go-between in the book contracts, was put on the patronage list privately, whatever that may mean.

The John McPherson Company, which made soldiers' boots for the War Department, has passed a certain number of men to the Civil Service, and the men are making a single bad mark. Its boots are as good as honorable mention for the company.

No doubt there will be considerable sympathy shown for Lawrence Colton, found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the fatality to the little girl in the iceboat accident. But it should not be forgotten that the little girl's life was needlessly sacrificed—a life no doubt precious to her parents.

We have no idea that the States will seek to adjudicate on peace terms when the time arrives to consider these. But if they are wise they will stay out of it. A decision one way or another would mean a large amount of trouble. The time is here when we will be dictated at Berlin, and Sir Edward Grey will be there to state them.

The Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which sank an American vessel at sea, and sought shelter in an American port, has been interned by the United States. The cause was not known, but it is reported that he was looking for help in the ice.

Yon Tipitz and he concluded that he would be unsafe to face the British bulldogs waiting for him outside the three-mile limit. The sub-marines could not help him.

With a first line averaging over two million dollars per month, or sixty thousand dollars per day, the fire situation in Canada has reached the stage where some steps must be taken toward discovering the cause and avoiding some means to a large amount of damage to the property of the Canadian Conservation.

Some day those who cause fire must face the music. The article and the statement of the Canadian Conservation of the Griffins will be heard.

Hero is a statement that appeared in a Government organ last week:

"That Charles E. Sister made a compilation of $15,275 on 17,000 books and pamphlets on the subject of the manufacture of shoes manufactured by the Gauthier Company, while the Gauthier Company had a profit of only $1,000."

It was a good find in the committee, but they did not know that those in authority approved of them.

What Germany wants is that the United States should refuse to trade with the Central Powers. The Central Powers are not interested in a war with the United States, and the Central Powers are not interested in a war with the United States.

It is a surprising story that the members of the committee could have had the intent to leave it as it was. Questions that will be asked are: Who is responsible? Who is to blame? Who is to be blamed?

Confessions Of a Wife

Mollie
Comes to

Clothes

"What did you say to Mr. Hutton last night, Mollie?" asked Mollie over the telephone this morning.

"I didn't say anything that amounted to anything. What did he say?" asked Mollie.

Hick had left for the office long before the blushing of the telephone bell awakened me.

"Well, he said you gave him some very good advice which he has been trying to follow ever since."

"You tell Mr. Hutton for me that he probably only wanted to confirm his ideas."

"What did he say?" asked Mollie with a smile.

"Hick asked me to lunch with him to-day," said Mollie.

"With Mr. Sullivan?" was my quick inquiry.

"No, Pat was not invited, but poor old chap, he didn't know it and came along."

I laughed and then I caught my breath as I heard what would be the outcome of it all.

"Come over here to-night, Mollie. Dick is going to be out of town on the 25th and I have a date with you."

"All right," she answered, and then she added, "Have you seen Mary again?"

"Not for two or three days, why?" asked I, and then, "Do you have any more news?"

"Mollie, you don't think I'm jealous, do you?" asked Mollie.

"I'm not jealous, I'm only ungrateful," she said with a smile.

"That being the case, dear, when you come up to-night, try to say something about the babies," she said.

"Oh, Mollie, I'll just love to see them."

Knowing that Mollie was coming I began to lay out all the little duds on the bed, and then I found something as pretty as a picture and the boy was wearing her up with his eyes."

"Hick, I'm going to be silly over the phone," I exasperated.

"Where shall I be silly?" she asked.

"I like to be silly, the way we Americans use; it is so expressive. Pat says he never knew anyone who was more worried over the way he was saying it."

"You are going, Pat now, are you?"

"Why not?" I always quote anyone who is worth quoting.

"That's the way I am, when you come up to-night, try to say something about the babies," she said again.

"Oh, Mollie, I'll just love to see them."

Gossip of Wall Street

(As supplied by H. P. Colman, 19 King street west.)

Thursday, April 5.—There was a very large market this morning, the improved condition of the markets being the chief factor. The markets were not able to keep up with the price of early coffee. However, there were no changes in the vegetable prices, except a slight advance in the rice, corn and lettuce prices. The grain market was also unchanged, and will likely remain so for a few days. Wheat will still fetch $1.32.

$200 FINE ON RAMBLER CLUB IN LIQUOR CASE

Charge Against Individual Member Was Allowed to Drop by Magistrate.

SIX-MONTH TERM

For Man Who Passed Useless Checks—Alleged Receiver Is Being Held.

In police court this morning Magistrate John Bell fined the Rambler's Herald Club, 31 Rebecca street, $200 on a charge of having liquor on their premises for sale. The club was represented by Mr. W. H. Bell, who merely asked the Magistrate to take into consideration the fact that this was the first time the club had been in court. No defense was offered and the fine resulted. Several members of the club were summoned, but Mr. Bell stated that unless they could not be produced against, the Magistrate dismissed him with him. He also stated that he would allow the matter to stand over. He also stated that should it occur again he would deal with the members club severally.

Charged with receiving stolen property John Hinchey was remanded for a few days. He is charged with receiving $1000 worth of property from various hydrants in the city by a boy who came up in the Juvenile Court. The boy was sent to the Juvenile Court and the old adage that he paid with his gloves never kept, said the Magistrate.

On one charge of larceny John F. Fenton received six months on each charge, to run consecutively. He posed a worthless cheque on the bank and was remanded several times for the cheque. He was remanded on a charge on H. McKeown, 225 King street, who was remanded. In defense of his actions he stated that he intended making good the money, but was arrested before he could do so. The Juvenile Court remembered the old adage that he paid with his gloves never kept, said the Magistrate.

Fred Prickett charged with larceny by William Dewberry was allowed to go. The Magistrate gave him a severe talking to and allowed him to depart.

When Louis Vasseur, who was engaged in cutting and hauling logs, his brother came up last week and the Magistrate advised him to go back to work, or he would be remanded.

In the meantime his friends got buy and raised enough money to send him back to the same work, but the Magistrate allowed him the liberty this morning.

Charged with exceeding the speed limit in his bus wagon, C. E. Hopkins was found guilty and fined $5. He hails from Stony Creek.

Daniel Burns and Robert Park, both 26th Street men, were guilty of using their cars to great personal comfort. A charge of being drunk and disorderly was laid against Burns and he was also charged with being drunk and disorderly.

George French charged with trespassing on the G.T.R. paid a fine of three dollars.

On a charge of assaulting Mario Campanelli, Alfie Bruni, a foreigner, was charged. The court was informed that he had done many things about her, but the evidence showed that she had had the consignment and that Bruni had merely defended him.

A STRANGE CASE

Austrian Estate in France is in State of War.

(By Times Special Cable.)

Paris, April 8.—A situation amounting virtually to a state of war exists on the historic Chamber of Commerce of France, 100,000 francs, which Prince Charles, heir apparent to the Austrian throne, has saved on account of the conflict, according to the Matto's. Misses correspondents, while the agent for the prince, Georges, M. de la Motte, is on the other.

He is said to have managed the property of the prince to the best system, and his methods have necessitated several times the intervention of the police.

The police are now investigating a fire which broke out simultaneously at four different places in the prince's park, and destroyed over 2,000 acres of timber, valued at $6,000,000.

The domain of the prince, which is situated in the valley of the Loire, and was laid out by Francis I, in 1536, is about 10,000 acres, and contains 20 miles of high walls. Notwithstanding this fact, however, and the presence of the prince, there are many reports of the evasions and contractions have become widely circulated in that region, and it is also stated that the prince is fighting with the German army, in which he is captured on the general's side.

The police are now investigating a fire which broke out simultaneously at four different places in the prince's park, and destroyed over 2,000 acres of timber, valued at $6,000,000.

The domain of the prince, which is situated in the valley of the Loire, and was laid out by Francis I, in 1536, is about 10,000 acres, and contains 20 miles of high walls. Notwithstanding this fact, however, and the presence of the prince, there are many reports of the evasions and contractions have become widely circulated in that region, and it is also stated that the prince is fighting with the German army, in which he is captured on the general's side.

BRIGHT BOYS

Hamilton Children's Aid Society has a few nice boys, ranging in age from 2 to 12 years, and for whom the warden does work. He is a good boy, and the present warden does a good job.
